OFFICE OF THE HIGH COMMISSIONER
FOR HUMAN RIGHTS IN NEPAL

Press Release – 12 August 2008

OHCHR-Nepal opens doors to neighbours, students

About 50 persons from the surrounding community, including school and college students, visited the headquarters of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) in Nepal in Chhauni, Kathmandu on Tuesday. 12 August is International Youth Day.

OHCHR-Nepal organized the Open House in order to share its history, activities and goals with its neighbours. The visitors were given a tour of the Office, viewed an audio-video presentation, and posed questions to Representative Richard Bennett and Deputy Representative Jyoti Sanghera.

OHCHR began working in Nepal in May 2005. It now has offices in each development region and a sub-office in Janakpur. For more information go to <http://nepal.ohchr.org>.
